KEEP YOUR CLIENTS FROM SAYING...

“I wish I could comment, but the amount of attorney’s fees we paid is confidential”

“The damages we paid were tripled”

“As a result of this case, we’ve started an antitrust compliance program”

With Eliot G. Disner’s newly published Antitrust: Questions, Answers, Law, And Commentary, 3d Ed.

The completely revised and updated new edition covers developments in:

- ⊕ European Community law
- ⊕ The health care industry
- ⊕ The energy sector
- ⊕ And insurance, media, and intellectual property antitrust issues

Praise for the second edition:

“Eliot Disner’s latest work [Antitrust Law] is lucid, witty, succinct, and the most practical handbook I’ve run across for practicing corporate attorneys. Disner has done it again!

— Michael Fullwood, Executive Vice President, Chief Financial Officer, Secretary and General Counsel of the Health Insurance Plan of Greater New York

“The antitrust laws are shot through with inconsistency, incongruity, and incomprehensibility.”

So writes Eliot Disner in the third edition of Antitrust: Questions, Answers, Law, And Commentary.

Disner helps business lawyers understand the complex world of antitrust law. And he can keep you and your clients out of trouble.

Casting aside theory, Eliot Disner spends most of this book answering the “what do I do now?” questions, to provide guidance in a business world that faces new and different antitrust challenges. Questions such as:

- May competitors exchange cost information? (p. 128)
- What special statutory provisions affect medical residents, doctors, and other health professionals? (pp. 123-126)
- How does the filed rate doctrine affect antitrust enforcement in the energy sector? (p. 130)
- Can a patent holder settle an infringement dispute by paying a would-be competitor a “stay-out-of-the-market” fee? (p. 127)
- What three important doctrines affect the reach of European Community competition law? (p. 83)
- What constitutes “bid rigging”? (p. 195)
- May members of a medical network fix prices? (p. 159)
- May a patent holder bad-mouth its competitor’s products? (p. 175)
- How does private enforcement differ in the European Community? (p. 102)

The text also covers:

- The risks of cutting off a nonpaying customer
- Dealing with customers who are also your competitors
- Joint promotion of products by competitors
- Safety standards
- Risks of trade association meetings
- Denial of hospital privileges to a doctor
- Patent holders’ imposition of specified pricing requirements on licensees

After reviewing the statutory and case law on both domestic and EU antitrust law, Disner takes you through the world of business, examining all forms of production, distribution, and sale to answer the questions your clients will be asking you. In each case, Disner uses clear language, basing his answers on the cases, the statutes, and his decades of practical experience.

As the author writes, “antitrust law is alive and well and there to make your clients pay the price if they step out of line, or to permit your clients to collect from others who do.” With Antitrust: Questions, Answers, Law, And Commentary you will know enough about the law to avoid problems.

About the Author

Eliot G. Disner is a partner in the Los Angeles-based Disner Law Corporation. He specializes in complex business litigation, including antitrust, intellectual property law, and other commercial disputes. He has won more than $100 million in damages in antitrust cases involving predatory pricing, monopolization, unlawful acquisitions, price discrimination, tying, and franchising.

He has also successfully defended numerous businesses charged with antitrust law violations. In addition to his many publications on antitrust and complex litigation matters and frequent CLE speaking engagements, he has served as an antitrust expert for The Wall Street Journal, the Associated Press, National Public Radio, Bloomberg News Service, the BBC, and C-Net, among others.

Mr. Disner is a graduate of the University of Michigan and the Harvard Law School. He chaired the Antitrust and Trade Regulation Law Section of the State Bar of California, as well as the Antitrust Section of the Los Angeles County Bar, and has been a member of the Executive Committees of both bar sections. Mr. Disner was a member of the BNA Antitrust and Trade Regulation Advisory Board. He was also the principal force behind the creation of official antitrust law jury instructions for the State of California, the only state in the nation with such instructions.
